Over the years, they have attempted to discharge this responsibility to the best of their abilities and against all pressures caused by the population-explosion in Delhi. The role of the Delhi Police has been to assist these bodies in this work by maintaining peace and order during encroachment removal drives and by prosecuting persons causing obstruction to such work by these bodies. The Zonal Offices were created as a part of the scheme of decentralisation in 1962. Some powers of the Corporation and of the Municipal Commissioner have been delegated to the Zonal Officers and they have been male responsible for prevention/removal of encroachment and unauthorised constructions in their respective zones. They continue to be so responsible even now. It has been clarified by the Delhi Admn. that in the event of Zonal Officers lodging complaints with the police, the SHO will be responsible for registering and investigating the FIR promptly.
